NOTHING LEFT — There was nothing left, nothing of value, after the home of Mrs. Evelyn Penwell, Bloomingburg, was completely engulfed in flames Tuesday morning. She reported that she was preparing her three children for school when she noticed smoke coming from the bedroom of their mobile home in Hunt's Trailer Court.

Bloomingburg firemen who fought the blaze for more than a half hour surmise that the fire started either in the bedroom or the adjoining kitchen. Mrs. Penwell rents the trailer which is owned by Donald Duncan, of Washington C.H. The contents were not insured.

Officers seek kidnapped daughter of radio exec

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Police checked the possibility today that more than one person was involved in taking the small daughter of a prominent broadcasting executive from in front of her home Monday. Police say a ransom of $2,000 was demanded for the child.

One officer who did not give his name said he heard more than one person may be involved in the kidnaping of four-year-old Allison Mechem.

Allison is the youngest of three children of Charles S. Mechem Jr., board chairman of Taft Broadcasting Corp., which has broadcast, amusement and film properties nationwide.

Witnesses told police Allison was playing with 6-year-old Stephen Bachmeyer on their tricycles when a car drove up, someone spoke to the children, then pulled the girl into the car and sped away.

C. O. Brown of Newark, Ohio, Mrs. Mechem's father, said the family told him a man drove on the dead-end residential street in Mount Lookout where the children were playing.

"He asked the two if the older Mechem girl was there," Brown said.

Brown said the children identified Allison as her sister and that the man immediately grabbed her and put her in the car.

Brown confirmed that the family was twice contacted by phone by someone believed involved in the incident. He would not confirm the $2,000 ransom report.

Police withheld comment on the case.

Relatives and friends entered and left the Mechem house in a prosperous

Mount Lookout throughout the night. A uniformed policeman stood guard at the front door.

One of two women who left the house 12 hours after the 4:30 p.m. disappearance said the family had received no further word since the two calls.

Mechem left the house twice during the evening, once to a phone booth a few blocks away, and the second time when he was followed by a car carrying police.

He apparently did not return during the night.

Early today, the two men and a young woman left the house, declined (Please turn to Page 11)

Democrats hunt new candidate

By The Associated Press

State Democratic chairmen say it's too early to tell who is the frontrunner for the 1976 presidential nomination in the wake of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's withdrawal.

An Associated Press survey showed that Sens. Henry M. Jackson of Washington and Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota were the most frequently mentioned contenders, with Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas a close third.

Kennedy, considered by many to be the leading contender for the nomination, said Monday he would not be a candidate for president or vice president in 1976 because of family responsibilities.

The AP tried to contact all the Democratic state chairmen to ask who they thought the frontrunner was and who they personally felt had the best chance of defeating President Ford two years from now.

Thirty-two of the chairmen said there was no clear choice, six named Jackson as the frontrunner, three named Mondale, one named Bentsen and one named Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, who, like Jackson, unsuccessfully sought the nomination in 1972.

Eight of the chairmen were not available for comment. The total is 51 because the two factions of the Mississippi party — the regulars and the predominantly black loyalist group — were counted separately.

"I don't think there is one (frontrunner) now," said Paul Lamboley of Nevada. "I think it's really a toss-up. We're going to see a real scramble now."

The contenders themselves expressed a similar view. Jackson said in Washington that the race is "wide open now." Mondale said Kennedy's action makes him "strongly inclined" to run.

Jackson was the most often named by all the chairmen — those who definitely thought he was the frontrunner and those who said there was no clear choice so far. The Washington senator was mentioned as a possible candidate by 19 state chairmen.

Frost hurts crops

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Frost and freezing weather on the first day of autumn Monday took a heavy toll of Ohio's tomato crop, already wracked by a dry spell earlier in the growing season.

The worst report of damage came from C. William Swank, executive vice president of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, who said the loss was virtually total in northwestern Ohio, the state's chief tomato-growing region.

"It appears the tomatoes were really frozen to the core," said Swank. "There'll be no more tomatoes harvested after today."

Swank, basing his assessment on reports from federation members in northwestern Ohio, said the damage amounted to about one third of the total year's harvest.

But other reports from Ohio's tomato country indicate the damage may be less extensive.

"It looks like about one-fourth to one-half of the tomato crop here was damaged," said Sandusky County Extension Agent Glenn Maddy. "We're about three-fourths harvested, so I'm talking about one-fourth to one-half of what's on the vine."

Sandusky County annually ranks either No. 1 or No. 2 among Ohio counties in growing tomatoes.

In Henry County, where temperatures were reported at around 29 degrees, Extension Agent Bob Cole said, "I think we'll be taking a few more yet, but it's still too early to give any real estimate."

Henry Riechman, district agricultural manager of Libby, McNeill and Libby at Leipsic in Putnam County, said tomato growers who supply his food processing company have reported a total of about 6,000 tons of frost-damaged tomatoes.

Riechman said that the unseasonable cold temperatures Monday may cut back their tomato production by 20 percent — on top of reductions caused by the earlier drought and recent heavy rains.

"All in all, the total season hasn't been one to write home about," said Riechman, adding that Libby's may even have to shut down for a while.

The extension agent's office in Putnam County painted a terse, grim picture.

"It looks like the tomatoes are pretty well done," a spokeswoman said. "The farmers will be taking today and tomorrow to salvage what they can."

Reports also indicated that Ohio's soybean, grain corn and fruit crop may have suffered considerable damage from the frost, but Eugene C. Whittmeyer, horticulture professor at Ohio State University, said it will be a few days before a complete picture is assembled.

Officials say freezing temperatures which settled across the Upper Midwest on Saturday and Sunday nights may have caused the loss of another 200 million bushels of corn, and the figure on soybean loss could be twice as great.

One result may be consumers paying "still higher prices for meat, milk and eggs," says Walter Goeppinger, chief administrative officer of the National Corn Growers Association in Boone.

"American farmers would probably have raised a record 6.1 billion bushel corn crop this year," he said on Monday. "After the spring storms and summer drought, it was looking like a

Rocky fares well in panel hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — A key Democratic senator says he hopes Nelson A. Rockefeller's confirmation hearings will ease public fears that "big business, big oil and big banks will benefit" from the elevation of the wealthy New Yorker to the vice presidency.

Though such fears may not be totally erased, Sen. Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia said in an interview, he thinks the American people should be reassured by "the tremendous experience and knowledge" Rockefeller would bring to the vice presidency.

Both Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., chairman of the Rules Committee, and Byrd, a member of the panel, said they saw little obstacle to confirmation of the former New York governor, based on Monday's opening day of hearings.

Rockefeller returns today for more questioning by the nine Rules Committee members. On Monday they asked Rockefeller about matters ranging from his personal and family finances to his approval of New York's controversial abortion reform law.

The day's questioning lacked the drama and tension of prior events in the vast Senate Caucus Room, such as last summer's Watergate hearings, or the Rules panel's sessions a year ago at which President Ford was approved for the vice presidency.

Even Rockefeller's vast financial holdings underwent few detailed questions as he repeatedly insisted his family's economic power is overrated and that his own acts are not influenced by his financial holdings.

"If I had spent a lifetime abusing economic power I assume I would not be sitting here today," Rockefeller said.

About the only cloud on Rockefeller's generally bright horizon was questioning about his role in a 1972 effort for renegotiating of a controversial Navy contract for F14 fighters being manufactured by the Grumman Aircraft Corp. on New York's Long Island.

Cannon asked Rockefeller about a July 8, 1972, letter to key officials of the Committee for the Re-election of the President, Clark MacGregor and John N. Mitchell, and to White House aide John D. Ehrlichman, and a memo suggesting a phone call to then Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

"As governor of the state of New York, I always tried to represent the best interests of my constituents," Rockefeller said. But he made clear that, as vice president he would do nothing to favor New York over other states.

Two MT school issues reviewed for Chamber

Questions regarding two proposed school issues for the Miami Trace School District were answered for members of the Washington C. H. Area Chamber of Commerce board of directors at a meeting with school officials held Tuesday morning in the Country Room of the Washington Inn Restaurant.

The Washington C. H. Area Chamber of Commerce's board of directors were originally scheduled to meet with representatives from both the Washington C. H. and Miami Trace school districts concerning issues which will be appearing on the November general election ballot.

School District officials was necessary.

Information gathered by Chamber of Commerce directors at the meeting with Miami Trace School District representatives will be studied before the Chamber directors decide whether or not to endorse the issue before the November 5 general election.

The Chamber of Commerce board of directors will meet October 10 for the purpose of determining whether or not to support the two issues proposed for the Miami Trace School District.

Basic questions regarding a three-mill additional operating levy and a 2.49-mill bond issue to provide for the construction of a new junior high school were answered by school officials during the meeting which lasted more than an hour.

Representing the Miami Trace School District at the meeting were Superintendent Guy M.

Foster, Kenneth A. Payton, president of the Fayette County Board of Education, and Miss Judy Betz, president of the Miami Trace Teachers Association and an instructor at Olive Elementary School.

Foster explained to five Chamber of Commerce representatives attending the meeting that the proposed 2.49-mill bond issue will be used to provide funds for the construction of a new junior high school for all seventh and eighth graders in the school district. A broader program will be offered to the junior high school students following the construction of a new facility, he said.

The three-mill additional operating levy, which would become effective January 1, 1975, is proposed for additional income to assist the school administrators in meeting spiraling operating costs in the district. The funds raised by the ad-

Governor calls housing meeting

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John J. Gilligan issued a call today for a statewide conference Oct. 1 to discuss problems and possible solutions in the area of housing.

He told a news conference the building and construction industry "is in its most suppressed condition since the mid-1930s, and we want to determine what, if anything, we can do about it."

Gilligan said his decision to call together representatives of builders, lending institutions, real estate developers and labor unions resulted from his participation in Washington Monday in a national conference on housing problems.

The governor said he will announce the names of the persons who will be asked to attend the Columbus conference later in the week.

U.S. pressures oil nations

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Ford administration's coordinated attack on high oil prices marks the beginning of a new offensive to turn world sentiment against the producing nations and to unite Western Europe with the United States in energy cooperation.

President Ford, Treasury Secretary

William E. Simon and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger all came down hard Monday on the continued high prices set by the other oil countries. They warned that no nation, including the oil states, could escape the consequences if the world is pushed into a depression.

In speeches by Ford and Simon in Detroit and by Kissinger at the United Nation General Assembly, the United States all but demanded an end to rising oil costs.

Ford said the year-long spiral risked a "breakdown of world order and safety."

The next strategic move will be a meeting of the foreign and finance ministers of major nonCommunist industrial nations at Camp David this weekend to discuss their common energy problems caused by price rises by the Arabs, Iran, Venezuela and other producers.

When Kissinger pleaded for Western cooperation and interdependence earlier this year, the European allies gave him a generally sour reception. Led by France, they chose to make their own approach to the Arab states.

Knowledgeable U.S. officials say that this time the administration has higher hopes that the campaign will succeed. It is not entirely clear what actions can be taken to carry out the blunt words by Ford, Kissinger and Simon.

Among the possibilities are said to be joint conservation steps and a pooling of energy for disaster situations. The use of force in the event of an oil squeeze like last winter's is considered very much out of the question.

Ford signaled the campaign with his own U.N. speech last Wednesday in which he cautioned the oil-producing nations that manipulation of energy prices could lead to counter action using food as a political and economic weapon.

Then, in his speech to the World Energy Conference in Detroit, the President said: "It is difficult to discuss the energy problem without lapsing into doomsday language." He added: "The danger is clear. It is severe. I am nevertheless optimistic. The advantages of cooperation are as visible as the dangers of confrontation."

Simon, before the same forum, said the oil-exporting nations were jeopardizing their own economies by keeping prices at high levels.

"The international investments of all nations are in jeopardy and the old fable of the goose that laid the golden egg can be seen developing in today's headlines and in international cable traffic," said the treasury secretary.

Kissinger, in even tougher language, warned the General Assembly: "The world cannot sustain even the present level of prices, much less continuing increases."

Another cool night dropped Ohio temperatures into the 30s, but somewhat warmer conditions are on the way.

Temperatures were not as cool as early Monday, but most areas ranged from the low to the upper 30s early Tuesday. Toledo again was near the lowest temperature for the state, although tied by Zanesville also reaching a 33-degree mark during the night. Skies were clear but patchy clouds were moving into the northwest portion of the state Tuesday morning.

Increasing southerly winds today will allow temperatures to climb higher and will reach the 60s throughout the state. Another area of low pressure is moving across the Great Lakes and some increasing cloudiness will occur in the northwest. However, most of the state will continue to have generally sunny skies.

Cloudiness will thicken Tuesday night somewhat and a chance of showers again exists over the state for Wednesday. Temperatures will continue to warm with lows mostly in the 40s tonight and rising to the upper 60s and lower 70s on Wednesday.

Fair Thursday and Saturday. A chance of showers Friday. Mild days with highs in the low 70s Thursday rising to the upper 70s or low 80s Saturday. Lows in the upper 40s to lower 50s.

New photos of fugitives distributed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The FBI has distributed flyers with new pictures of fugitive newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst and two Symbionese Liberation Army companions, Emily and William T. Harris.

The new photos show Mrs. Harris wearing a wig, Harris with a closely cropped haircut and Miss Hearst's profile.

The flyers, distributed to 52,000 law enforcement officials throughout the U.S., also adds new aliases for the Harrises, including Mike Andrews, Richard Frank Dennis, William Kinder, Jonathan Maris, Jonathan Mark Salamone, Mrs. William Taylor Harris, Mary Hensley, Joanne James, Anna Lindenberg, Cynthia Sue Mankins and Dorothy Ann Petrie.

"We want 52,000 pairs of eyes to get a new look," said special agent-in-charge Charles Bates after the flyers were released on Monday. He did not disclose when or how the pictures and aliases were secured.

Miss Hearst, 20, the daughter of Randolph A. Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner, was kidnapped by the SLA on Feb. 4. She later renounced her family and said she had joined her captors.

Stock list down again

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices slid sharply today, with glamors and blue chips getting the worst of it.

The noon Dow Jones industrial average sank 9.93 to 653.79, and losers mounted a 3-to-1 margin over gainers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts cited the market's fragile technical condition, following last week's strong advance. Traders apparently began to sell harder as it became clearer that last week's rally lacked conviction.

There was also some disappointment that the nation's banks have failed to respond to sharp declines in key interest rates with a cut in their own prime lending rate.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index was off .43 at 66.57.

The Southern Co., the most active Big Board issue, dropped 1/4 to 10 1/2, including a 184,500-share block at 10 1/4.

Xerox, second-most-active, fell 4 1/2 to 687, with selling sparked by reports of possible sales snags in its 9200-series duplicator.

The NYSE's noon composite index declined 0.63 to 35.82.

Champion Home Builders led the Amex volume list, off 1/4 at 2 1/4.

Study Nixon hospital stay

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Former President Richard M. Nixon, reportedly feeling depressed and fatigued, will be hospitalized at least a week for "extensive tests and treatment" of phlebitis.

His face described as pale, Nixon checked into Memorial Hospital Medical Center of Long Beach through a rear entrance on Monday. The former president's physician, Dr. John C. Lungren, said Nixon would be there for at least seven days.

Lungren refused, however, to provide specifics on the treatment Nixon will receive for the painful ailment which has afflicted his left leg.

General plans call for Nixon to receive anticoagulant drugs in an effort to dissolve two blood clots now resting in the area of his left thigh. Such treatment also is designed to prevent the clots from breaking loose and moving through the blood stream to the lungs or heart, where they could cause death.

Lungren did set down tight ground rules for public information on Nixon's hospitalization: Written reports will be issued at noon each day, and every word will be cleared in advance by the former president.

Lungren told newsmen after Nixon, his wife, Pat, and his youngest daughter, Julie Nixon Eisenhower, slipped into the hospital that he had examined the former president and found "evidence of physical fatigue." Lungren, an expert in heart trouble and internal medicine who has long been Nixon's personal doctor, offered no prognosis.

The doctor said he had ordered "exhaustive studies to find the causative agent of the illness."

A further nonmedical report on Nixon came from Ronald A. Ziegler, who served as Nixon's press secretary at the White House and is now the ex-president's chief aide.

"The phlebitis and the events of the last 45 days have caused him to not be in good spirits, to at times be low in his frame of mind," Ziegler told newsmen. "His mind, though, is very acute."

Ziegler responded with a flat "No" when asked if Nixon would undergo psychiatric care.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A soap opera called "Love of Life" starts its 24th year on CBS today, having given viewers more than 5,900 daily crises to brood about since it first aired on TV on Sept. 24, 1951.

That's a record for televised weeping and gnashing of teeth. Producer Jean Arley did some teeth-gnashing of her own when asked to describe the show for those who work days and never see it. Like me.

"A capsule description?" she retorted. "Well, the story flows around Vanessa and Bruce Sterling in a town called Rosehill.

"There's so much going on — 'Sturm und Drang' kind of things," she said, meaning turbulence and pressure. "I don't know how you'd ever capsuleize something like that."

The lead characters, portrayed by Audrey Peters and Ron Tomme, are a childless, middle-aged couple, she said. Bruce publishes the Rosefield Herald and Vanessa is a housewife who dabbles in real estate.

Life was quite innocent when they began on TV. Nowadays any soap opera worth its suds is "relevant," meaning abortion, adultery, Lesbiansim and crying without a license are dealt with forthrightly.

"We've come a long way and we're very frank now," Miss Arley says. "We've even had a story lately about a couple whose sex life went awry after a number of years and there was a sex therapy situation. Which is a big step from what it used to be."

Miss Arley said the show's writers have a rough idea of which way the over-all plot is headed as much as two years in advance.

"It's kind of a bare outline," she said. "We have a basic 13-week cycle, and that's broken down into weekly situations." She said a given crisis or subcrisis isn't necessarily resolved in a given time.

"It may not be resolved for a year, or it can wind up in two weeks," she explained. "It depends. Right now, we're dealing with corruption, a corrupt mayor. It's been on the last six months."

Do viewers gripe much about boudoir hanky-panky?

"Sometimes very strongly," she said. "They think it's immoral or they say, 'Hooray!' You can get two sides. I think it depends sometimes on age or loyalty to a character with whom viewers identify."

Soap opera plots are more complex than the federal budget. But Miss Arley said her show's daily story pow-wows keep the authors from writing characters into boxes from which there's no escape.

Does she worry that game shows may someday kill off her soap opera?

"I worry about everything, all the time," she laughed. "You just hope you're doing the best possible job and that people are watching."

One investigator seeking the origin of tektites — small glassy blobs that many scientists believe originated on the moon — suggested that a comet head collided with the earth, exploding with the energy of a half-million hydrogen bombs, and scattering bits of melted earth materials.

Frost belt widens

By The Associated Press

The crop-killing frost that hit the Midwest moved eastward today, and more rain fell on the already soaked southern Plains.

Frost and freeze warnings were out overnight from western Virginia to Maine. Cold, clear air extended into the Ohio, Tennessee and Mississippi valleys.

Agriculture officials in the Midwest estimated the early freeze there Sunday and Monday may have cut up to 200 million bushels from a corn crop estimated recently at 5 billion bushels. And the losses to projected soybean production could run twice as high, they said.

Extensive flash flooding still plagued southwest Texas and southeast New Mexico where rain has fallen for days. Showers were scattered from the southern Plains to Florida.

Summer lingered west of the Rockies. Sacramento, Calif., had its 21st day of above-90-degree weather on Monday — setting a new record for the month.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 26 at Bradford, Pa., to 85 at Needles, Calif.

Loans available for gas pumps

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Loans up to $500,000 are available to small independent gasoline dealers to help them comply with unleaded gasoline regulations a spokesman for the Small Business Administration has announced.

Frank D. Ray, director of the SBA office in Columbus, said the loans are available to retailers and oil distributors not affiliated with brand name service stations.

Rhodes charges violation of law

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gilligan administration spokesmen reacted bitterly Monday to a charge by Republican former Gov. James A. Rhodes that the current governor and his transportation director "plan to violate the state law."

Robert Tenenbaum, Gov. John J. Gilligan's press secretary, brushed aside the charge and said Rhodes should apologize to the voters for "a real abuse" of ethical campaign practices.

Tenenbaum deplored in particular a Rhodes press release that said Gilligan and Transportation Director J. Philip Richley were holding back on announcing an increase in highway taxes until after the Nov. 5 election.

Rhodes maintained that such action runs afoul of a 1972 law that requires Richley's department to submit this year to the 110th General Assembly a report on transportation needs, including funding amounts and sources.

Richley was "widely quoted," Rhodes said, as saying the report would not be presented until January after the 11th General Assembly is convened. "thus a direct violation of state law."

Richley said Rhodes was "all wrong." He said the report, now being completed, will be sent to Gilligan around the first of December "and will be in the hands of the legislature before it goes out of existence Dec. 31. We're going to be 100 per cent in conformance" with the 1972 law, the director said.

The director also said that the question of a tax increase "is a policy matter" that only can be determined by the legislature. He said the report on highways and other transportation proposals will contain alternate means of funding from which the legislature can choose.

Tenenbaum expressed dismay that the Rhodes press release and others "like the one that said the governor was going to double the income tax" are "irresponsible... without basis of fact."

Opinion And Comment

A swallow that hurts

Many Americans habitually drop the tab and ring from beer or soft drink cans into the can the moment it is opened. The sound rationale is that otherwise these sharp-edged bits of metal may wind up being swallowed by fish, animals or fowl, with painful and perhaps fatal result.

This is heartening evidence of the spread of environmental concern. A nasty fly has appeared in the ointment, however. Doctors warn that accidental swallowing of such tabs is a potentially serious medical problem. It is one complicated by the fact that the tabs, being aluminum, are hard to detect by X-ray unless the patient takes barium.

Emergency surgery may be required if such objects lodge in the gullet, or esophagus. In other cases, the metal may pass through into the stomach; that is likely to demand surgery, too.

A couple of remedies come to mind. One, of course, is for people to quit dropping the pull-tabs and rings into the drink cans, but that would make for more litter and a menace to wildlife. The alternative is to hang onto the tab and drop it in after the can is emptied of its contents. Rather awkward, granted. Still, it seems like a small trouble to take to rule out the chance of gulping down a sharp piece of metal along with that refreshing draft.

THESE DAYS . . . By John Chamberlain Federally-controlled zoos?

There is a move on in Congress to federalize the zoos. Now, really!

The idea, of course, is well meant. But if the wild animals of North America could be interviewed on the subject of the Federal government as nursemaid, one would surely be deafened by a hideous concatenation of yelps, screeches, yowls and barkings, all sounding their objections.

The noble Department of the Interior, for example, is supposed to be the keeper of wildlife on public lands. But not so long ago it was planting something called "1080" in explosive cartridges. Topped off with bait, or an appealing scent, the cartridge would be nibbled at by a coyote. The explosive would drive the "1080" down the coyote's throat and he would die in agony. Livestock owners can make a good case that the coyotes are vermin, but the trouble with "1080" is that it also appealed to kit foxes, bobcats, pumas and even domesticated dogs. Hoping to find a less indiscriminate killer, Interior has substituted sodium cyanide for "1080." But the kit foxes and pumas are, according to disinterested reports, still dying along with the coyotes.

The Golden Eagle supposedly counts on our Washington nursemaids for survival. But if a rancher shoots a Golden Eagle over his own acres from an airplane on the theory that his calves are endangered, nothing is done about it.

The reason for protecting sheep and cattle from wild predators is economic and is not to be condemned out of hand in a world that is short of protein. But what the history of Federal coyote control proves is that Washington is always subject to pressure groups. Only a dictatorship could change that, and who wants a dictatorship? If the zoos of the nation were to be federalized, the humane societies would surely dominate the pressure on whatever zoo bureaucracy happened to be set up by the White House. Well, what would be wrong about that? Let John Mehrtens, who runs the very successful Columbia Zoological Gardens in Columbia, South Carolina, tell you what is wrong.

The average save-the-animals American, he says, is a biological illiterate, and his reaction is always emotional. This illiterate deplores it when a cheetah is taken from its native habitat in South Africa, or when an Indian tiger is wrenched from his home in the Indian jungle. But the truth is that, in the not-so-distant future, the cheetahs and Indian tigers may very well owe their existence to protected zoo breeding banks.

"Habitat destruction," says Mr. Mehrtens, "is remorseless everywhere, and in South Africa the cheetah is regarded as vermin to be exterminated."

The Mehrtens' statistics are ominous. A few years ago there were 40,000 tigers in India; today the number has dwindled to 1,800. There are more registered Siberian tigers in zoos than in the whole of Siberia. The last wild Balinese tiger was recently shot by a poacher. So the Balinese tiger is now extinct simply because nobody had taken a pair out of their native habitat for a Western zoo. One of three orangutans are now born in captivity, as are two of every four gorillas. As for the African lion, 50 years hence he will be lucky to be living in a game park.

Mr. Mehrtens' point is that zoos are merciful as well as useful, provided, of course, they are well run. In a period of inflation, Congress, though it would surely be responsive to the emotional pressures of the humane societies, would hardly be willing to provide money to make the zoos better or to build up their breeding banks of endangered species.

Rather than have a timorous and poorly-funded Washington bureaucracy running our zoos for the 103,000,000 people who visit them in a year, and doing the usual sloppy Federal job of it, Mr. Mehrtens would have the American Association of Zoological Parks and Aquariums take the responsibility for the animal show much as the doctors and the lawyers provide professional competence for their own ranks.

Washington has run the U.S. currency into the ground, devastating thousands of human beings. Why, then, should it be trusted to keep the animals happy?

Forced contribution claim denied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State officials have denied a concessionaire's claim that he was forced to contribute to the re-election campaign of Gov. John J. Gilligan in order to operate a booth at this year's Ohio State Fair.

George C. Lindsey, Jr. of Sunbury, filed suit Monday in Franklin County Common Pleas Court naming the governor, the Ohio Expositions Commission, State Fair manager Victor Lucas and Concessions Manager Thomas Clark. Lindsey is asking for $825,750 in damages.

Lindsey, is a former manager of concessions at the fair, and was a fair worker under former Democratic Gov. Michael DiSalle and former Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes. Lindsey maintains Clark initially charged him $600 earmarked for Gilligan's campaign fund, and $150 more to move his booth.

In a telephone interview, Clark denied the charges, saying, "It's not true at all. I don't know where he's coming up with his information."

Clark added that Lindsey was billed the same amount to occupy a space at the fair "as everyone else is."

A spokeswoman at Gilligan's campaign headquarters said, "We have no record of one penny coming into this campaign from George C. Lindsey."

Lindsey's suit also contended Wendy's Old Fashioned Hamburgers, Inc., Kentucky Fried Chicken Inc., and McDonald's Systems of Ohio Inc., conspired with fair officials in a preferential treatment system designed to undermine smaller concessionaires.

Ohio Perspective Liquor permit crackdown set

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A new law will arm Ohio's Department of Liquor Control for a crackdown on felons and hidden partners owning taverns and liquor spots six days from today.

Richard E. Guggenheim, state liquor director, admitted the problem wasn't monumental, but said the new law helps with an enforcement puzzler that has existed for years.

Even before the new law, the Ohio code prohibited falsifying ownerships of permit premises.

"In the past when a phony was set up," said Guggenheim, "we could only revoke the permit and the true owner simply would move on to set up a new false front."

The new law, he said, "gives us the means to go after the true owner."

The new statute brands permit falsifications as first degree misdemeanors and for a first offense that could mean a $1,000 fine and up to six months in prison.

Guggenheim said he expected the new law to discourage false permit applications and also to force the owner to disclose more information about himself.

It extends disclosure of ownership to include stockholders owning at least 5 per cent of the business as well as any security interests except those held by banks and building and loan associations. The previous requirement was 10 per cent ownership.

The new law will protect certain permit-holders who might otherwise become victims of organized crime, the liquor director said.

Operatives with criminal records, barred from liquor permit ownership, have at times been able to qualify for a permit by setting up false ownership "to deceive the department," Guggenheim said. They also have tried to get into the liquor business by granting loans to permit-holders, he said.

The new statute came from the Liquor Law Advisory Committee, a non-partisan group named by Guggenheim to make the first comprehensive study of Ohio liquor laws in more than 40 years.

Established in January, 1972, the panel now has submitted 20 proposals to correct "inequities and anachronisms" which the director said emanated over the years.

Ten of the proposals have been enacted into law by the General Assembly.

The present-day calendar was introduced by Pope Gregory III in the 16th century and is known as the Gregorian calendar.

The earliest calendars were used to denote religious observances and such things as the rainy seasons.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Fiance doesn't like to be called "Daddy"

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to marry a man I'll call Bob. I love him very much. I also love my little two-year-old daughter, Diane. Diane adores Bob and calls him "Daddy." That's my problem. Bob gets very upset when Diane calls him Daddy, and has asked her not to call him that.

He's the only Daddy Diane has ever known. Her real Daddy left me when I was four months pregnant.

Abby, Bob can't give me any good reason for not wanting my daughter to call him Daddy. Except for this, he's not mean to her and it bothers me.

Bob is 24 and I am 17 but don't let my age fool you. I'm one of those kids who grew up fast, due to an alcoholic father and no mother.

I desperately need the advice my mother can't give me. She died when I was six. Thank you.

DIANE'S MAMA

DEAR MAMA: Bob's reluctance to be called "Daddy" could signal his unwillingness to accept Diane. If he plans to marry you, surely he should regard your daughter as his own. If he doesn't, she'll be cheated and so will you.

Perhaps he suspects that you've coached Diane in this "Daddy" business to pressure him into an early marriage. (Did you?)

In any case, he's edgy about something and is taking it out on the child. Go slowly.

DEAR ABBY: Hurrah for Mr. X who walked out on a dinner party because he didn't wish to compete with a blaring TV set. How often I have wished for that much nerve. If one is invited to a "TV party," fine that gives him an opportunity to send regrets.

Here's how I handled that situation with some success: I continued to converse with my host and hostess, but I kept lowering my voice until they could hardly hear what I was saying. They finally got the idea and turned off the set.

PAT W.: BROWNWOOD, TEX.

DEAR PAT: Great idea. Next time, try just moving your lips. That might send them to an ear doctor.

DEAR ABBY: Would you please tell me the proper way to congratulate a bride and groom following the wedding? The bride is my granddaughter. And what do you say to the groom's parents in the receiving line?

GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: Wish the bride much joy and happiness. (Never congratulate a bride. That would be like commending her on having snared a man.)

Congratulate the groom, however, and wish him a happy marriage.

Congratulate the groom's parents, and express your pleasure in welcoming a new "son" into your family.

CONFIDENTIAL TO RED IN ANGLETON, TEX.: Tell her the truth. She'll never believe it.

Two WSHS students report to Kiwanians on institute

Last May, the Washington C.H. Kiwanis Club, along with several other service organizations, donated money to send four delegates from Washington Senior High School to the Teenage Institute on Drug and Alcohol Abuse held at Ohio Wesleyan University.

During the Kiwanis Club's regular weekly dinner meeting held Monday night in the Lafayette Inn, two of the four delegates reported to the club on their experiences at the institute.

Washington Senior High School faculty member and advisor to the students at the institute, attended the meeting. Mrs. French said Miss Oswald was one of 12 girls from throughout the state to serve on the Ohio youth advisory board. One of the responsibilities of the advisory board was to assist in the planning of next year's institute.

BARBARA OSWALD, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Oswald, 805 Briar Ave., and Cinda Van Meter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frelan Van Meter, 525 Albin Ave., said 320 high school delegates from throughout Ohio attended the institute.

The two Washington Senior High School students said the institute consisted of lectures, discussion groups, question and answer periods and mini workshops.

Pertinent facts brought out were that alcoholism is a disease and can involve anyone in any station in life, the students said. Psychological and emotional problems can lead a person into alcoholism, according to the two students.

Seven out of 10 adults in the United States drink and one out of 10 is an alcoholic. This amounts to nine million persons in the United States.

What causes teenage alcoholism? The two WSHS students said peer group pressure, a feeling of not belonging, problems at home, boredom and apathy are primarily responsible.

What can adults do to help? They said adults should keep the lines of communication open with children. If parents have a teenager who drinks, the WSHS students said the adults shouldn't scold or criticize, but attempt to find out where the problem started and where to go for help.

Army deserters led normal lives

CAMP ATTERBURY, Ind. (AP)—Many of the first Vietnam war era deserters accepting President Ford's clemency offer say they led normal lives under their real names with little fear of being hunted.

"I had a driver's license in my own name, worked under my own name, had my own social security number, was a registered voter and paid taxes in my own name," Thomas King, 27, said.

Eugene Wade, 27, Alliance, Ohio, said he turned himself in twice before only to be released because the Army could find no records of his being AWOL.

After his escape from an Army stockade in January 1969, King worked as a sheet metal shop laborer and foreman in a small town in Michigan, where only his wife and his boss knew him as a deserter. He was arrested two days before President Ford announced the conditional clemency program Sept. 16 after his wife turned him in.

"After the first year, you just forget about it," King, who once was arrested on a speeding violation, told reporters.

King and Wade were among seven returnees who agreed to talk with newsmen Monday after about 130 men arrived at this World War II and Korean War training camp 30 miles south of Indianapolis for clemency processing.

During the regular business meeting conducted by club president George Gibbs, it was announced the October 2 meeting for the Division 10-W council meeting will be held at the Hilltop YMCA in Columbus.

The chairman for Monday night's program was Ronald Lott. Bill Golay, 140 Adams Drive, was inducted into the club by Dick Maddux.

Prosecution testimony ends in assault case

Testimony for the prosecution ended Tuesday morning, and the defense will take over this afternoon in the case of a Washington C. H. man charged with felonious assault.

The case of Lester LeMaster, 24, of Washington C. H., is being heard by a jury of nine women and three men. He is represented by Otis R. Hess Jr., while Fayette County prosecuting attorneys James A. Kiger and John H. Roszmann are representing the state. Fayette County Common Pleas Court Judge Evelyn W. Coffman is presiding.

LeMaster is charged with assaulting Cecil Dalton, his ex-wife's boyfriend, with a handgun May 24. According to the prosecution, LeMaster hit Dalton on the head with the gun several times and fired the weapon while the two struggled.

The lone gunshot apparently fired into the air, and no one was injured by the shot. However, Dalton received some head injuries, and officers found LeMaster in a semi-conscious state.

According to the testimony of Dalton and LeMaster's ex-wife, Carol, they were watching television at her residence on Oakland Avenue the evening of May 24, when LeMaster arrived about 9 p.m.

HE ENTERED the home and asked who Dalton was and then left immediately. Some 10 minutes later he returned to the home and requested Dalton to step outside. They testified that as soon as Dalton was out the door, and without provocation, LeMaster began striking him with the gun.

Dalton and LeMaster began struggling and the gun discharged into the air. As they continued to struggle, the gun allegedly misfired while pointed at Dalton's stomach. Dalton finally gained the upper hand and continued pounding LeMaster until police officers, summoned by Carol LeMaster, arrived. By that time LeMaster was almost unconscious. He was taken into custody and charges were filed by Dalton.

According to the opening statement by Hess, LeMaster will testify that when Dalton came from the house he held a glass bottle and attacked LeMaster. The two were struggling when LeMaster broke away and grabbed the gun which was lying in his car.

Dalton allegedly continued his attack on LeMaster and the gun fired into the air. LeMaster was then repeatedly beaten by Dalton before the police arrived.

Hess repeatedly cross-examined the testimony of Dalton and Ms. LeMaster in an effort to show some indication that the two had planned the incident in retaliation because LeMaster had said he would seek custody of the couple's 19-month-old child. Both were poised on the stand and the defense seemed to make little headway during the cross-examination.

The testimony is expected to conclude early today, and the jury should be able to retire to ponder a verdict Tuesday afternoon.

Brown eyes fundraising violations

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio Atty. Gen. William J. Brown says he will disclose before the November election what action his office will take on allegations of improper fundraising activities by the state Democratic party.

Brown brushed aside Monday a proposal by his Republican opponent, George Smith, for the appointment of a special prosecutor "like Leon Jaworski" to investigate a General Accounting Office report.

Smith, the Franklin County prosecutor, accused Brown of foot-dragging on the federal report after the attorney general said his office would take no legal action until after the Nov. 5 election.

Brown reiterated Monday that legal processing of the case simply could not move any faster than that, but he said within the next few weeks "they will know which way we're going" on the case.

Brown, a Democrat, received a copy of the report last February and, after a preliminary investigation, turned it over to the Cuyahoga County prosecutor's office late in July because it was a "local" matter. However, Prosecutor John Corrigan did not take any action on the report and returned it to Brown about a week ago.

Smith said the report indicates illegal fundraising by Democrats in the state Department of Transportation and that "an aggressive attorney general would not have played politics and delayed prosecution."

MRS. ROBERT W. JONES

Sabina Church wedding setting

Miss Linda Sue Carter and Robert Wade Jones were united in marriage in the Sabina Church of Christ Saturday. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Carter of 332 Gregg St. Mr. and Mrs. Alec Jones, of Jamestown, are the parents of the groom.

The Rev. Joe Lorimor officiated at the vows solemnizing the double ring ceremony.

When the mothers of the bride and groom were seated, Mrs. Joe Saville played organ music with songs chosen by the couple. The songs were "Precious and Few," "Color My World," "I Won't Last a Day Without You," "Cherish," "This Girl is in Love With You," "Your Best Thing That Ever Happened to Me," and the traditional "Wedding March." Guests were seated by Ron Yocum and David Tidd, as they were ushered down aisles marked with orange and yellow bows. Two seven-tiered candelabra decorated with orange and yellow bows entwined with ivy flanked the altar. A large cascade of flowers was placed behind the altar with a velvet backdrop.

Escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of ivory organza and Venice lace. The natural waistline was trimmed in lace with a V-neckline accented with ruffles and lace. The short sleeves were three tiers of ruffles and lace forming a cape around the shoulders. A full gathered skirt with flounce trimmed lace led to the chapel length train. Her large picture hat complimented the gown with Alencon lace and pearl beading, satin ribbons around the brim with satin streamers down the back. She carried a cascade of orange and yellow can roses, white daisies, baby's breath, orange and yellow carnations and ivy. She also carried a pearl beaded handkerchief given to her by her grandmother, Mrs. Ronald Kelley.

Miss Molly Armstrong of Washington C.H. was maid of honor. She wore a formal length gown of yellow, orange and green organza floral print accented by a picture hat of the same floral print. Her ensemble was made by Mrs. Lenora Cupp of New Holland. Miss Armstrong carried a fireside basket of matching assorted flowers.

Serving as best man for Mr. Jones was Alan Dale Womacks, cousin of the bride.

Mrs. Carter chose for her daughter's wedding a light turquoise blue chiffon over silk street-length dress with jewel studded belt and long sleeves with matching accessories. She wore a wrist corsage to match the bride's colors. Mrs. Jones, the groom's mother, wore a beige and turquoise street-length dress with beige accessories, and a wrist corsage to match the bride's colors.

Mrs. Kelley, the bride's grandmother, wore a green dress with gold accessories and a corsage of orange, yellow and green daisies. The groom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. O.J. Bryan, of Jamestown, were also present.

Hostesses for the reception held in the social room of the church were Mrs. Robert Van Pelt of Sabina, Mrs. Virgil Palmer, Mrs. Royce McGee and Mrs. Elmer Haymaker, all of Washington C.H.

The five-tiered wedding cake, baked and decorated by the bride's grandparents, was white with orange and yellow daisies orange and yellow sugar bells and green leaves. Matching flowers encircled the base of the cake, which was on the orange and yellow lace cloth. Two yellow lighted tapers completed the setting. Presiding at the guest book were the cousins of the bride, Mrs. Steve Staley and Miss Carol Lynn Staley.

The bride's parents were hosts at their home for the rehearsal dinner on Friday evening.

Mrs. Jones, a graduate of Washington Senior High School, is now attending Career School of Cosmetology in Chillicothe. Her husband, a Greeneview High School graduate, is employed at Elono Corp., Beaver Creek Township. They will reside in Woodview Homes, Jeffersonville.

Former city teachers honored at Delta Kappa Gamma meeting

By RUTH FRIES

Delta Kappa Gamma members were entertained at a lovely program at the Terrace Lounge given by Mrs. Faye J. Mays on former teachers of the area, the second one she has presented to the group.

"A teacher affects eternity, he can never tell where the influence ends," Henry Adams.

With Henry Adams' statement in mind, Mrs. Faye J. Mayo, a retired teacher of the Washington C.H. schools, embarked upon a project to secure data of women teachers of Washington C.H. and Fayette County and future generations to read. About 100 biographies along with pictures on permanent slides have been presented to Delta Kappa Gamma, an honorary international society with a chapter in Washington C.H.

These career teachers of the past were the shapers of the minds who would shape so much of America's dream — and America. Teachers who devoted their whole working lives in teaching as most of them did in the 1800's. As a teacher of this period expressed it, "I learned that in a rural school, a teacher would have to be a nurse, doctor, mother, counselor, cook, custodian, baby sitter, referee, diplomat, psychiatrist without a couch, politician living on promises.

Besides Mrs. Hadiee Van Winkle Coffman and Mrs. Elizabeth Cockerille McFadden who are featured elsewhere in this report, Mrs. Mayo narrated facts about other teachers with interesting teaching careers of the late 1800's and early in the turn of the century. They were Mary Lorie Hughey (elocution), Lulu Hutchinson Robinson (vocal music), Mary Rowe, Laura Parrett York, Maude Bush, Stella Zimmerman Fudge, Lillian Barnes, Martha Roberts Mark, Eliza Mark Waddell, Mamie Van Pelt Mark, Lizzie Stokesbury, Ella Craig Carr, Reba Roberts Bay, Mary Conner Wikle, Maude Eggleston, Laura Eggleston Stewart, Madge Lynch Cline, Elizabeth Eggleston Crowe, Inez Whiteside, Gertrude Veal, Morna Blessing Chapman (one of the two women who have served on the Washington C.H. Board of Education), Hattie Pinkerton, Georgia Blessing Davison, Maude Stuckey, Anna Bateman, Lillian VanKirk, Cora Pearce, Clara Coventry, Olive Hadley Springer, Forest Allen DeBra, Eva Carr Allen, Jean Todd Creamer, Florence Conner, Forest McCoy McCoy, Mabel Allen McCoy, Halceon Feagans Swinehart, Edna Thompson, Jessie Thompson Hutson and Ruth Coe.

Additional slides showed the Delta Kappa Gamma members in a World War II parade on Court Street, and the first school building in the U.S., which is still standing in St. Augustine, Fla.

By means of slides, photographs of each teacher at the time she was teaching were shown on the screen while Mrs. Mayo narrated the important events in the life of each, honoring each teacher by recounting traits of character and personality which holds each in loving memory. Each teacher touched the lives of so many, educated their ways, brightened their road, sharpened their wits and taught them to live a good life.

The theme of the evening, "A Salute to the teachers at the turn of the Century" was emphasized by the Delta Kappa Gamma members singing the familiar old tune "School Days" with old and modern lyrics written by Mrs. John Rhoads, who with Mrs. L.F. Everhart also accompanied the group. Clever items on the tables were old-fashioned slates, with place cards reminiscent of school days of the turn of the century.

Following the dinner hour, and program, Mrs. Karl Harper, new president of Alpha Delta chapter, conducted the business meeting which included reports of officers and announcements of future activities. The invocation was given by Mrs. Lloyd Iden.

Miss Margaret Gibson read a biographical sketch honoring Mrs. Mayo, a charter member and first president of the chapter in 1939. The chapter presented a gift and also the floral arrangement on the table to Mrs. Mayo to thank her for the excellent program she presented.

MRS. HAIDEE COFFMAN

Mrs. Haidee Van Winkle Coffman, one of the most admirable teachers in the history of Washington High School, was a native of Hillsboro. She graduated from college there in 1890 and in 1891 came to Washington C.H. and became an instructor in Washington High School. She married Grant Coffman of the Coffman Lumber Company. She died in 1944, after guiding the thoughts of hundreds of students through history and art which she glamorized by her information she secured from her many European trips. The paintings and sculpture which enhance the walls of Washington High School were secured under her supervision.

The Sunburst, the WHS annual, had this to say when she retired from teaching in 1935: "The faculty and student body of WHS will sustain a great loss when Mrs. Coffman retires from the active teaching force of this high school. Mrs. Coffman leaves many priceless reminders of all she has done for the enrichment of the lives of those students who have felt the power of her personality."

Through her influence and under her leadership the annual art exhibits have cultivated a love for good pictures and furnished the means of filling the corridors and rooms with copies of the great masters in painting and sculpture that are the pride and joy of pupils in school and will be a treasured memory to carry through life.

In her classroom she made the dead past live again, history under her presentation became a pageant of living figures moving through the ages, "rich with the spoils of time - a continuous panorama of human figures. Fortunate is the student who has come under the influence of such a teacher."

MISS E. BLANCHE COCKERILLE

Miss E. Blanche Cockerille, a native of Fayette County, taught speech in Washington High School from 1901-1910, and gave of her talent and experience in what was then designated as "elocution" for debates, rhetoricals and plays which were an innovation at that time.

She married John M. McFadden. One of her sons, Robert McFadden, lived in Fayette County on the Jasper Coil Rd. Before her teaching in Washington High School, she was graduated from the School of Expression in Boston with high honors. The Boston Globe said,

Dumford urges more U.S. 35 road progress

Laurence A. Dumford, of Washington C.H., candidate for 77th District State Representative, today requested the Ohio Department of Transportation to speed up plans for construction of a new U.S. 35 in eastern Greene County.

"The time has come to bury 'Suicide Strip' and relegate it to its dubious poace in history," Dumford said in a letter to Robert F. Bevis, deputy director for Division 8 of the Ohio Department of Transportation in Lebanon.

Dumford told Bevis in his letter that he realized a considerable amount of preliminary work had been performed in connection with the improvement and relocation of U.S. 35 between Jamestown and Xenia.

"But, I think it is time to begin detailed planning so people in this area can begin to see definite progress on the project," Dumford said.

The former Fayette County commissioner said the term "Suicide Strip" which Jamestown area residents call the highway, is an appropriate name for U.S. 35.

"Too many deaths, injuries and bad memories have resulted from the delays this project has received," Dumford continued.

Dumford, a Democrat, said if elected he would work vigorously to see that the transportation needs of the 77th district are met.

"This includes the quick completion of the U.S. 35 improvement," Dumford vowed.

Traffic Court

A Leesburg man pleaded guilty in Municipal Court Monday to three traffic charges and was found guilty of another by acting Judge John P. Case. The defendant was sentenced to two 30-day jail terms which are to run concurrently.

Robert D. Penwell, 27, of Box 106, Leesburg, pleaded guilty to charges of driving while intoxicated, giving false information when filing for an operator's license, and driving left of center. He pleaded no contest to a charge of driving while under revocation of his license and was found guilty of the charge.

Judge Case sentenced Penwell to 30-day jail terms on the DWI and driving under revocation charges, and ordered that they run concurrently. He fined their defendant a total of $550 and ordered that he not be issued a driver's license for three years. Penwell had been arrested by city police.

James F. Blevins, 30, Robinson Rd., forfeited $500 bond on a DWI charge filed by the police. Others cited by city officers were David W. Gregg, 22, Port Richey, Fla., who was fined $25 for reckless operation, and Charles L. DeWitt, 64, of 820 S. Hinde St., who forfeited $25 bond on a red light citation.

Sheriff's deputies charged John G. Pfeifer, 23, of 628 E. Elm St., with speeding. He forfeited $25 bond when he failed to appear in court.

OHIO HIGHWAY Patrol officers filed the other cases scheduled Monday. Most of the defendants forfeited bond.

Prayer breakfast draws 84 students

The second teen prayer breakfast of the present school term had 84 in attendance. The breakfasts are held each Tuesday morning at the South Side Church of Christ.

"Build Your Life on the Rock" was the theme Rev. Charles Richmond used at meditation time. A breakfast of scrambled eggs and toast was prepared by Mrs. Charles Starkey, Mrs. Frank Creamer, Mrs. Willis Anthony, and Mrs. Harold Gorman and Mrs. Don Sanderson. Jana Bolender, junior at WSHS, led the singing. A trio composed by Jana Bolender, Greg Sanderson and Marilyn Creamer sang "Sweet Sweet Spirit."

After breakfast Kevin Blair, senior at WSHS, spoke to the group on "Christ's Teachings on Anxiety." He dismissed the group with prayer. The next Prayer Breakfast will be held at 6:45 a.m. Tuesday.

TOM PFAFF

BILL BRUNDAGE

Crucial injuries hit Panthers' grid team

Miami Trace's football team was dealt two crucial blows as a result of the Jackson game. Offensive and defensive halfback Tom Pfaff is lost for the season and Bill Brundage, a offensive tackle and defensive linebacker, is expected to miss the next six games.

Pfaff, who is 5-foot-9 and weighs 151 pounds, tore the ligaments around his left knee when he was hit by a Jackson tackler in the second quarter. Until the blow, Pfaff was enjoying his best game of the season, as he picked up 65 yards in nine carries and scored one touchdown.

Pfaff was the quickest member of the offensive backfield, which makes the task of replacing him even harder. In scoring eight points this season, he carried the ball 34 times for 186 yards and caught three passes for 34 yards. His rushing average of 5.47 yards per carry rated him fourth among South Central Ohio League rushers in non-league games. He will be operated on later this week and spend a week in Riverside Hospital in Columbus.

Brundage, who had his neck in traction during scrimmage season, reinjured his neck and upper back muscles just before the end of the first half. He spent the weekend in Holzer Hospital in Gallipolis.

Since the Panthers do not have too many players with adequate size, the loss of Brundage is especially critical. Brundage, who is 5-foot-10 and weighs 180 pounds, was a key blocker for the Panthers' rushing game and he was equally dependable on defense.

Miami Trace coach Fred Zechman said he will have to spend the entire week working with different players at the new vacancies in the lineup. Since this Friday's contest is a non-league affair with Chillicothe, several players will be tested.

Pirates best Cards on Hebner's base hit

It was, as Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtaugh put it, "a bang-bang play." And it shot down St. Louis' chance to nail the Pirates.

Lou Brock, having just stolen his 115th base of the year, was on second in the eighth inning. Then he tried for No. 116.

But it was Brock who got nailed instead, Manny Sanguillen gunning him down with a perfect throw to Richie Hebner.

It was an especially costly attempt at larceny when, a moment later, Ted Sizemore singled. Brock would have scored — had he still been on second. Instead, it was just a meaningless hit for the Cardinals in a still scoreless game.

Scoreless until the 10th inning, that is, when Hebner singled to give the Pirates a 1-0 victory that moved them within a scant half-game of the first-place Cards in the frenetic National League East race.

In the less-heated West Division, the Los Angeles Dodgers reduced their flag-clinching "magic number" to four by beating the Atlanta Braves 4-3 and widening their margin over fading Cincinnati to five games.

In the only American League action

Final home stand opens

Upper Arlington lead poll

By GEORGE STRODE
AP Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A three-cornered fight among former state champions is unfolding in The Associated Press Ohio Class AAA high school football ratings.

On top in the first 1974 poll Monday was Upper Arlington, a Columbus suburban school that ruled the big school ranks in 1967, 1968 and 1969.

The Golden Bears, with 185 points, were nine ahead of 1956-57 victor Canton McKinley and 21 in front of No. 3 Warren Reserve, the defending Class AAA poll champion.

Akron St. Vincent-St. Mary and Plain City Alder, bidding for their first state poll football titles, were the respective leaders in Class AA and Class A.

A statewide panel of sports writers and broadcasters rates the teams weekly for The AP on regular season performances only.

St. Vincent-St. Mary collected 72 points for the Class AA lead with Columbus Watterson, the 1972 state king, running second with 68 points. Third-place Wheelersburg had 66 points.

In Class A, Alder's 81 points gave the school a six-point edge on No. 2 Portsmouth Notre Dame, a former small school poll champion. Bluffton, in third place, earned 66 points.

In Class AAA, Cincinnati Moeller claimed the No. 4 spot, followed by Warren Harding, Steubenville, Cincinnati Elder, Lakewood St. Edward, Findlay and Fremont Ross.

In Class AA, Warren Kennedy was fourth and then, in order, came Steubenville Catholic, Wellsville, Jackson, Minerva, Dayton Jefferson and Toronto and Cincinnati Wyoming, the latter two tied for 10th.

Eagles edge Cowboys on Dempsey's boot

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Tom Dempsey kicked his way back into the good graces of Philadelphia Eagles' management.

The 27-year-old Dempsey booted two pressure-packed field goals in Monday night's nationally televised game to give the Eagles a 13-10 victory over the Dallas Cowboys.

The Eagles have never said so officially, but there have been strong rumors that the National Football League club wanted to unload the kicker.

Dempsey, as player representative, led the Eagles in the strike against the NFL. He exchanged harsh words with Eagles' owner Len Tose. As a result, he hasn't even signed his 1974 contract. But all the bitterness was lost in the glow of Dempsey's 33-yard field goal early in the final period that sent the Eagles ahead 10-7. And after Dallas tied it, the gutsy kicker with the club foot booted one 45 yards with 25 seconds left to win the game.

Tose rushed up to a bunch of newsmen in the Eagles' dressing room after the comeback triumph, and shouted for all to hear, "Dempsey will sign a contract this week."

The 255-pound Dempsey, from Palomar, Calif., Junior College, is no stranger to being a football hero. He holds the NFL record for longest field goal — a 63-yarder in the final seconds of a 1970 game that gave New Orleans a last-second victory over Detroit.

Dempsey parted company with the Saints prior to the 1971 season, victim of a bulging waist line and a feud with the head coach. He sat at home waiting for somebody to call. The Eagles signed him as a free agent but didn't activate him until the eighth game of the season.

Since then, the 6-foot-1 booter has led the team in scoring, amassing 106

Lions notch fifth straight

Unioto, the defending South Central Ohio League champion, became the fifth consecutive victim of Washington Court House's undefeated golf team. The Blue Lions captured a four-stroke victory, 178-182, at the Washington Country Club.

Mike Stanforth led the Lions with a round of 42. David Garringer came through with a 43, while Scott Sefton and Rob Harris added rounds of 44 and 49, respectively. Washington's non-counter was Scott Lewis, who fired a 49.

Medalist honors went to Unioto's Jamie Kysor with a 39. Mike Holz added a 42, while other scores soared to a 50 for Tim Fairbanks and 51 for Dwan Davis. Mike Barnett had a round of 58.

Washington will now take its unbeaten record to Circleville, Wednesday evening.

In extremely close voting, the Buckeyes of Ohio State replaced Notre Dame today as the No. 1-ranked team in The Associated Press college football poll.

Five new teams appeared in the Top Twenty as a result of the weekend's rash of upsets.

Following Saturday's 51-10 rout of Oregon State, Ohio State received 23 first-place votes — three fewer than Notre Dame — and 1,110 of a possible 1,220 points from a nationwide panel of 61 sports writers and broadcasters.

The Fighting Irish of Notre Dame, who walloped Northwestern 49-3, received 26 first place votes but only 1,104 points.

Oklahoma, idle last weekend, held onto third place with eight first-place ballots and 913 points.

Alabama, fifth a week ago, received the other four No. 1 votes and 896 points and moved up a notch to fourth by battering Southern Mississippi 52-0. Nebraska, last week's No. 4 team, dropped to 10th by losing to Wisconsin 21-20.

Michigan, a 31-0 winner over Colorado, climbed from sixth to fifth with 756 points. Texas defeated Wyoming 34-7 and rose from ninth to sixth with 588 points.

Last week's 7-8 teams, Louisiana State and Penn State, were upset by Texas A&M 21-14 and Navy 7-6 and skidded to 17th and 19th, respectively. Arizona State trounced Texas Christian 37-7 and jumped from 11th to seventh. Pitt shot from a tie for 15th to eighth with a 27-17 triumph over Georgia Tech. Texas A&M, a newcomer to the rankings, zoomed all the way to ninth by beating LSU. Nebraska rounded out the Top Ten.

The Second Ten consists of Wisconsin, Oklahoma State, North Carolina State, Tennessee, Arizona, Illinois, Louisiana State, Southern California, Penn State and Miami of Florida.

Wisconsin made it by edging Nebraska. Oklahoma State knocked off Arkansas 26-7 one week after the Razorbacks upset Southern Cal. Illinois thrashed Stanford 41-7 and Miami stunned Houston 20-3.

One member of the panel called this week's voting the toughest he's ever had to do.

"You've got about six or seven teams and after that throw 'em in a hat," he said, adding that he spent at least four hours wrestling with his ballot.

Second man charged in shooting incident

GREENFIELD — A continuing investigation by Highland County Sheriff's deputies regarding a shooting incident last week at the residence of a Greenfield police officer has resulted in the arrest of a second Greenfield man.

Highland County Sheriff's deputies said Rex A. Erskine, 21, Rt. 2, Greenfield, was arrested Monday on a charge of felonious assault in connection with a shooting incident last Tuesday night at the residence of Greenfield Police Sgt. Gregory H. Hadley, Ohio 28, just west of Greenfield.

Erskine, who was freed after posting $5,000 bond on the charge, becomes the second Greenfield area resident to be arrested in the past two days in the investigation of the shooting incident.

Greenfield police officers and Highland County Sheriff's deputies early Monday arrested Vernon R. Jenkins, 23, of Greenfield, on a charge of felonious assault.

JENKINS, an employee of the Greenfield service department and a former auxiliary police officer with the Greenfield department, is presently free on $5,000 bond on the charge.

He is scheduled to appear for a preliminary hearing Wednesday in Hillsboro Municipal Court. No hearing date was scheduled for Erskine.

Highland County Sheriff's deputies said an investigation into the incident is continuing.

Sgt. Hadley was preparing to report for duty at the Greenfield Police Department when the shooting incident occurred shortly after 10 p.m. last Tuesday. He and his wife, Anne Marie, and two children were in the residence when the shotgun blast was fired, apparently from an auto.

No one was injured in the incident and the only property damaged was the front door of the Hadley home.

Agents from the Bureau of Criminal Investigation, London, have been assisting Highland County Sheriff's deputies and Greenfield police officers in the case.

comment, and drove off in a police car.

The FBI joined police in the search. Early today, plain clothes city policemen were called in from their search in the Mount Lookout area.

Police gave no explanation of the action.

Witnesses said a man driving a 12-14 year old white car stopped near where Allison and a playmate were riding bicycles. They said someone leaned out of the car, spoke to the youngsters, then pulled the girl into the car and sped away.

Ron Laker, a university student painting a house nearby, saw a commotion and attempted to follow the fleeing vehicle in his own car. He lost it in traffic.

Police said in one call to Mechem at his office, he was told where to find the abandoned car. It was in the parking lot of a dairy store near the Mechem neighborhood.

In it police found a ransom note in the pocket of a blue jacket and a shoe belonging to the missing girl.

Police traced the car registration and were seeking its owner.

Bob Gilmartin, news director at WKRC-TV, a Taft station here, said there was concern about the amount of ransom asked. He said police feared the "potential mental instability" of a person who demanded a $2,000 ransom.

Mechem is not related to the politically prominent Taft family which has ties with the broadcasting firm founded by the late Hulbert Taft Jr. He was a distant cousin to Sen. Robert Taft, R-Ohio.

The firm has six television stations and five radio stations, two large amusement parks and two film production firms, the latter on the west coast.

Police said many witnesses to the kidnapping were children who played with the blue-eyed blonde little girl.

Stephen Bachmeyer, a neighbor, said his 6-year-old son was a witness.

"Stephen ran to call Mrs. Mechem who was in her house and then ran home to me," Bachmeyer said. "He was frightened. He said Allison had been kidnaped by a man who got out of a car and pulled her off her bike."

"Stephen said the man put her in the car and drove off."

"There would have been more kids right there, but they had had a bike collision and several of them took one of the little girls home."

Refugees seek hurricane aid

TOCOA, Honduras (AP) — The floodwaters from Hurricane Fifi are subsiding and countless hundreds have left their refuges in trees and on rooftops in the Aguan valley of northeast Honduras. Now they are flocking to refugee centers looking for food and clothing.

Several hundred are sleeping on the classroom floors of a school in this small town in the heart of the valley. They have powdered milk for their babies and a few local grapefruit that survived the storm. But food and clothing have not arrived, and there are no blankets for the sleepers.

"We are all dying of hunger," said Ophelia Perez, who escaped from Fifi's neck-high water with only the mud-splattered, ragged dress on her back.

"When is help coming? Look at my son, he has no clothes. We have lost everything."

Though the banana plantations in the Aguan Valley and the neighboring Ulua Valley were extensively damaged, officials said casualties around Tocoa were very light. But the government late Monday night raised the official estimate of the total dead in northeast Honduras to between 7,500 and 8,000.

Military officials in the devastated San Pedro Sula-Choloma area in the heart of the Ulua Valley estimate between 5,000 and 6,000 bodies have been burned or buried.

John Taylor of Boston, an executive of United Brands, one of the country's two major banana producers, said the crop was almost completely destroyed.

Others put the loss at about $500 million and said it would take at least two years to rebuild the plantations.

Finance Minister Manuel Acosta Bonilla told a news conference in Tegucigalpa, the Honduran capital, the official estimate of the damage done by Fifi's rampage last Thursday night was $900 million, half the estimate given Sunday by Col. Ruben Villanueva, the chief relief officer in the San Pedro Sula-Choloma area. The colonel said later that while he used the term dollars, he was actually speaking of Honduran lempiras, each worth 50 cents.

President Oswaldo Lopez Arellano announced that an emergency committee was being set up to study the problem of rehabilitation.

Opening lead - king of clubs.

It is said that some of the best plays in bridge are made away from the table. Post-mortems often reveal plays — winning plays — that simply escape declarer in the heat of battle.

Here is a typical example. South got to four hearts and West led the king of clubs. Declarer ruffed, crossed to dummy with a trump, ruffed another club, played another trump to dummy, and ruffed dummy's last club.

Having prepared for a possible endplay, South cashed the K-A of spades and exited from dummy with the jack. He was hoping to find West with the queen of spades, which seemed highly likely on the bidding. In that case, West would have found himself thoroughly endplayed.

But there's many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip, as South soon found out. East won the spade with the queen, shifted to a diamond, and South went down one.

That night, while trying to fall asleep, declarer realized that he should have made the contract. All he had to do was discard a spade on the opening lead of the king of clubs!

West would have been rendered helpless by this play. Let's assume he shifted to a trump at trick two. Declarer wins in dummy, ruffs the seven of clubs, cashes the K-A of spades and ruffs the jack.

South returns to dummy with a trump, leads the queen of clubs and discards a diamond on it. West wins but is stymied. He must lead a diamond or yield a ruff and discard — and either play hands declarer the contract.

The moral seems to be that it is easier to play well seeing four hands than two.

CHAFFIN CANDY CANES

The Chaffin Candy Canes met on Thursday at Wilson School. Topics discussed were hours earned in community service, ideas for crafts and tours.

Officers elected for the next month were Jennifer Dowler, president; Krista Sowers, treasurer; Emily Engle, reporter. Other members present were Cindy Pressler, Darlene Ford, Diane Valentine and Mrs. Valentine, Leader.

Hough said long-time theft fence

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Cross examination is scheduled to begin later today of Donald Lee Johnson, 29, who said Monday that James Hough, 36, agreed he "could probably move" two Rembrandt paintings stolen Dec. 18, 1973 from the Cincinnati Art Museum.

Johnson, described by the prosecution as the "mastermind" of the thefts and $100,000 ransom, testified in the trial of Hough, a real estate broker who acted as intermediary in the return of the works.

Hough is charged with extortion, receiving stolen goods and harboring a felon.

Johnson said he planned the thefts with three other men. Hough later agreed to handle the paintings, valued at $1.580 million, for $700,000, Johnson said.

Johnson, who said he was a "burglary expert," said he had "numerous dealings" with Hough for a number of years.

Johnson testified Hough had handled stolen items in past years which included an organ, guns and even a motorized camper truck, all stolen.

Glenn Dennis, another real estate broker who had shared his office with Hough, testified earlier that Johnson met frequently in the office with Hough.

Ohio lottery millionaire stakes set

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The $50,000-added Ohio Lottery Millionaire Stakes will be run as the ninth race of a 10-race card Oct. 27, Michael Mackey, general manager of Thistledown race track announced Monday.

The race at Thistledown will determine the order of the winning shares for the 10 finalists in the state lottery's first millionaire drawing.

Post time tentatively has been set for 1:30 p.m., but will be 12:30 if standard time returns, Mackey said.

The 100 millionaire finalists are to be guests of the track for the drawing. General admission and some parking and concession prices have been reduced for the event, he added.

Mackey said members of the Ohio legislature are among those invited to attend.

The first 17 finalists were picked last week at the drawing in Dayton. Over 80 more finalists will be picked in the next few weeks to take part in the drawings for prizes of from $1,000 to $1 million.

The weekly $20 winners are eligible to be picked as finalists for the millionaire drawing.

The lottery commission picked Thistledown for the first drawing, and the selection was approved by the Ohio Racing Commission.

In Focus

by Charlie Pensyl

Time was when shopping for most things was simple. You just went into your friendly camera store and got a Whatzet brand camera and that was that. That's not the case today. Like today you must choose from among an entire family of Whatzet, Super Whatzet, the new Super Whatzet II, and the Auto-Super Whatzet. Why so many models? Frankly I think it's to confuse the consumer. And, if that's the objective, the scheme is working. This puts the shopper more and more at the mercy of the guy behind the counter. If that salesperson is knowledgeable and honest, you, as a shopper, have nothing to fear. Otherwise, man, you better figure on being taken.

Let's take a case in point. The shopper who walks into the LAKEWOOD SPORTSMAN may have much technical knowledge of guns, reloading supplies, scopes, and stuff; or maybe he doesn't. But the sharpest man I know in this area is on hand out there to help the guy, like me, that needs advice and help. Phil really knows this stuff. In any specialty store like this it's nice to know that there is someone there whose word you can depend on.

Well, classes are under way at CK-FN. This week we will be having one of the best film presentations on the use of photography we've ever seen. You may want to make the rest of this series. The October 3 class will be on existing light photography, and on the tenth we take up photographic composition. To handle flash properly you must first understand existing light work; and this business of composition is something that bugs many.

VD and Birth Control Pills

Would you believe it that one of my friends says that birth control pills are a protection against venereal disease? I can't convince her. Can you?

Miss G.W., Ohio

Dear Miss W.: When people become fixed and rigid about any idea it is usually impossible to get them to change their minds. In medical matters it is amazing how dogmatic some people can be in the face of total ignorance of the facts.

There is absolutely no foundation to the idea that birth control pills can prevent venereal disease.

Young people who delude themselves with this kind of nonsense invariably run into serious trouble.

Birth control pills are hormones. They have no antibacterial effect.

Many of these strange ideas come up because young people avoid talking to doctors about birth control pills. They buy them through illicit channels. For this reason they are ignorant about how the pill works and what the contraindications are for its use.

A great danger exists when birth control pills are used by irresponsible youngsters who feel they have a right to promiscuous sex. This is one of the reasons why venereal disease has reached epidemic proportions.

One of our children is not well coordinated. Medical and eye examinations are normal. How can we pursue this further?

Mrs. O.T., S.C.

Dear Mrs. T.: Clumsiness, poor coordination, inability to concentrate, reversal of letters and difficulty in reading are only a few of the characteristics of children who may be suffering from dyslexia.

Complex eye studies and neurological examinations should be pursued by you to track down the reason for your child's lack of coordination.

Dyslexia is a comprehensive disorder with many ramifications. Many of its subdivisions are diffuse and strangely affect the development and growth of young children.

Specialists in the field are devoting themselves exclusively to a greater understanding of its cause, its early detection, and its treatment.

United States farmers raise more than two and a half billion chickens a year.

A malicious incident of vandalism occurred at Landmark plant, 1201 S. Elm St., sometime between Saturday and Monday, Washington C.H. police officers reported.

Forty valve stems were broken from tires on spreaders, applicators, gravity bed trailers and solution tank trailers, causing the tires to go flat. New tubes will be needed for all the damaged tires and police estimated the repair bill at $240.

The FBI and cemetery operators say thieves are after the bronze vases which hold flowers over thousands of

Other offenses reported by police dealt with an attempted breaking and entering, dog bites, an incident in which a pet dog was shot and an ill person. The Fayette County Sheriff's Department reported an auto fire and a larceny.

An attempt was made to break into the garage at the Elizabeth Palaskas residence, 511 East St., sometime between 5:30 p.m. and 7 p.m. Monday, police reported.

graves in cemeteries across the nation.

The vases, which weigh about three pounds each, are sold to scrap metal dealers for the current going rate for bronze, up to $1 a pound.

Robert Toson of suburban Milwaukee's Pinelawn Memorial Park said thieves recently made off with 802 grave vases. He said the vases, probably sold for about $2,400 by the thieves, would cost about $21,000 to replace, at wholesale prices.

Spokesmen for two of the nation's largest bronze vase manufacturers, Matthews Bronze Co. of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Gorham Bronze Co. of Providence, R.I., said however, that they are making replacements for stolen vases free of charge.

Toson said the loss of the vases, which carry retail price tags of $50 to $75, is causing concern among relatives who bought vases.

He said the cemetery thieves generally find the profits high and the risks relatively low in stealing the vases late at night in quiet, unpatrolled cemeteries.

A spokesman for the FBI office here said the agency is investigating interstate shipment of stolen vases. He said cemeteries around the country have been hit, with the most robberies in Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio.

Richard Kauppinen of Beloit, president of the Wisconsin Cemetery Association, said police in some areas are being asked to give more attention to cemeteries on their night patrols, but most cemetery managers fear publicity will only spark more thefts and vandalism.

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—National City Corp. of Cleveland has announced plans to establish a new national bank next to the Great Lakes Mall in Mentor.

A dog belonging to the Guy Underwood family was shot with rocksalt from a shotgun sometime between 11 p.m. Saturday and Sunday morning while contained in the fenced in backyard at the Underwood residence, 1122 E. Temple St.

Police stated this drastic measure may have been taken to stop the dog from barking while the Underwoods were away. The dog was treated by a veterinarian and an investigation into the shooting is in progress.

Red light law intent explained

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio now has a law on its books to permit motorists to make right turns on red after stopping, but it doesn't take full effect until July 1, 1975.

Drafters of the bill that became a part of the statutes Monday provided for a delay to allow local authorities to erect signs at intersections where the turns still will be prohibited. For example, intersections used frequently by school children are expected to retain the ban.

Several cities already permit right turns on red at some intersections. Their present markings indicate when it is all right to proceed. The state law calls for marking only those intersections where turns are prohibited.

ditional operating levy will be used for salary improvements for all certificated and non-certificated personnel in the school district, school bus purchases, supplies and fuel.

The three school representatives reviewed the district's budgets over the past two years and pointed out the increased costs due to spiraling inflation and other costs which have resulted in extended programs such as the special education project and kindergarten classes.

Foster pointed out that although the district has experienced rising costs over the past two years, the income has remained basically stable. The district is presently receiving about the same amount of property tax income it received two years ago. The district has received additional funds through the state foundation program, but not enough to take the rising costs in stride. For example, Foster said paper costs have increased over 100 per cent during the past year.

THE MIAMI Trace School District superintendent said contrary to statewide and national trends, the district's enrollment figures are continuing to increase and the facilities are not as adequate as could be expected.

He said if Miami Trace School District voters approve the three-mill additional operating levy it will not solve all of the district's problems. He said the board of education believes the three-mill levy is a reasonable request and together with expected funds in 1975, some improvements will be able to be realized.

Representing the Chamber of Commerce were President Bruce Galloway, executive vice president Jim Dunn and directors Don Bailey, John Rhoad and John Lachat.

The Chamber will hold a similar meeting next Monday night with members of Washington C. H. City Council to discuss the proposed 1.25 per cent income tax which will be appearing on the November ballot.

Urge easing of pollution standards

DETROIT (AP) — Several experts at the World Energy Conference say a reassessment of antipollution standards is needed to help meet energy needs.

"In our enthusiasm to make good after generations of neglect we have imposed severe environmental restraints upon both the production and combustion of fossil fuels," said Treasury Secretary William E. Simon.

Opening a panel discussion on energy on Monday, Simon said those restraints "must be re-examined" along with government policies on prices, licenses and date changes which have curtailed the domestic search for oil.

Former british energy adviser Lord Zuckerman also called for rethinking on priorities.

"With the prospects of severe short-falls in energy supply before us, the aims of environmentalists interested in amenity and the conservation of nature need urgent reassessment," Zuckerman said.

"Energy supplies are an indispensable cement of the social fabric of all societies. We cannot rationally turn from the kind of civilization to which we are now all totally committed."

None of the environmental groups such as the Sierra Club which have led in the questioning of past energy policies are present at the conference. It has drawn representatives from major producers and consumers of energy.

Sir John Hill of Great Britain, speaking on the subject of nuclear power, conceded that dealing with highly radioactive liquid wastes from reactors was a major problem for the industry.

Environmentalists have objected to the continued development of nuclear power partly because of the waste problem.

Deputy recovers stolen vehicle

A car which had been abandoned at the intersection of Bloomingburg - New Holland and Lewis roads was found by Fayette County Sheriff's Deputy Charles Wise Saturday. He impounded the vehicle until ownership could be determined because the tags had been removed.

Fayette County Sheriff Donald L. Thompson explained the Sheriff's Department later received report of a car which had been stolen sometime Friday from Ron Farmer's Auto Body Shop at the intersection of North Street and Peddicord Avenue. A serial number check proved the stolen car and the recovered car were the same, and investigation is continuing into the theft incident.

Kissinger studies Cyprus situation

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger comes to grips today with the stubborn problem of Cyprus and the strained relations between the United States and Greece.

Kissinger scheduled separate meetings with Greek Foreign Minister George Mavros and Turkish Foreign Minister Turan Guney, who are attending the United Nations General Assembly.

There was speculation that Kissinger might visit Cyprus during his trip to the Middle East in October and try to break the deadlock over the future of the Mediterranean island.

Kissinger offered a month ago to go to Cyprus and mediate between Greece and Turkey, but the Greek response was chilly.

The Greeks blamed the United States because it did not prevent the Turkish invasion of Cyprus and then did not check the invasion force before it completed its conquest of the northern third of the island. There were anti-American demonstrations in Athens and other Greek cities, and "Kissinger! Murderer!" was a favorite cry of the demonstrators.

Mavros also spoke to the assembly on Monday and termed Turkey's occupation of northern Cyprus "the rape of a small, nonaligned country by its far stronger neighbor."

He asserted that if the United Nations failed to force the Turks to withdraw from Cyprus, it would founder "in the morass of ... moral weakness" and this could kill the world organization.

Turkish Ambassador Osman Olcay took the floor to accuse Mavros of gross distortion. He said Turkey sent troops to Cyprus to save it from becoming a province of Greece. Turkey's intention, he said, was to allow Cyprus to become "independent, nonaligned, if it so desires."

Among the speakers to the assembly today were Foreign Minister Andrei A.

Gromyko of the Soviet Union, which also seeks a role in the Cyprus dispute, and Foreign Secretary James Callaghan of Britain, which with Greece and Turkey is a guarantor of the independence of Cyprus under the 1960 treaty freeing it from British rule.

Meanwhile, Archbishop Makarios, the exiled president of Cyprus, was flying to New York to make his second appearance at the United Nations since a pro-Greek coup overthrew him in July.
